Next of Kin

The following is the Federal "next of kin", this law is what must be followed first and foremost when determining who owns the remaining "Rights of Interments" of a grave lot.

Unlike most estates that can be divided equally among the "Next of Kin". "Rights of Interment" can only be divided a maximum amount of times, limited by the number of "Rights" purchased, and the number of them remaining.

Meaning, if there is only 1 Right of Interment remaining, and there are 5 surviving children, lot "Rights" can only be used once. Unless in the case of cremation where the "Rights" are divided to the number of cremations per grave allowed by the cemetery.

The remaining "Rights" are then on a "first come first serve" in the order listed below. the list below is for "Direct" "Next of Kin" and does not allow for in-laws, unless permission is given by all legal "Next of Kin" "Next of Kin" does not apply when documentation proves transfer of rights to an individual or individuals.

"Next of kin" means a person having the following relationship to the subject, in the following order of priority:

(1) The spouse;

(1-A) A domestic partner: For purposes of this section, "domestic partner" means the partner of the subject who:

(a) Is a mentally competent adult;

(b) Had been legally domiciled with the subject for at least 12 months immediately preceding the death of the subject;

(c) Is not legally married to or legally separated from another individual;

(d) Was the sole partner of the subject; and

(e) Was jointly responsible with the subject for each other's common welfare as evidenced by joint living arrangements, joint financial arrangements or joint ownership of real or personal property;

(2) A adult son(s) or daughter(s);

(3) A parent or parents;

(4) A adult brother(s) or sister(s);

(5) An adult grandchild or grandchildren;

(6) An adult niece(s) or nephew(s) who is the child of a brother(s) or sister(s);

(7) A maternal grandparent(s);

(8) A paternal grandparent(s);

(9) An adult aunt(s) or uncle(s);

(10) An adult first cousin(s); or

(11) Any other adult relative(s) in descending order of blood relationship.

An example of a common "Next of Kin" that we address:

John Smith passes away, the family would like to use his grand parents lot, James and Janet Smith, both of which are deceased. "Next of Kin" falls to their children, each living child must give written permission for the interment to take place. If however there are no living children, the rights then fall to James and Janet parents, assuming they have passed, then the rights are passed equally to any living brothers or sisters of James and Janet, and permission must be given by each one. Assuming there are no living siblings of James and Janet, then the rights fall to the grandchildren, (John Smith is a grandchild) he now has the right to be interred in that lot. as does any of his siblings (their spouses however do not, without written permission from each sibling. And so on...
